Tayla Harris Reveals James Corden Made Her Feel So Good When you get to sing with James Corden on national television, it's going to be different. But Tayla Harris, 25, can admit she felt differently after working with the Carpool Karaoke host on this season of The Late Late Show. "I felt very relaxed, which is not something I would have predicted," she tells ET. "I feel like a lot of the times, I get really stressed out and nervous and I've felt really stressed out and nervous the last couple of days." But she adds, "There's a sort of power when you're working with someone like James Corden, there's a real sense of responsibility that you feel. I felt really good." Tayla, who co-stars on the CBS show Mom, joined James on the set of the popular show in May and admits the singer made her feel very welcome. "It was very much like I felt being in a family. It's something you feel like you're part of, it's a family," she says of the TV personality. "I think it was really special, especially working with him, because we had such a connection, like I felt very comfortable with him. "I felt like he was right for me because he was very kind and caring and I felt like he had a really good sense of humor and I was so proud that I got to be on his show," she adds. The star, who started her career on the Disney Channel's Good Luck Charlie, also shares her bond with mom Gloria, 44, who she made her famous. "I think I feel a lot like she does when she's going through something," Tayla shares. "Like when I'm really happy or when I'm sad. We're so similar." Tayla, who was born in the U.S. but raised in South Africa, has been working as an actress for quite some time. She debuted in 2015 on Comedy Central's Broad City, where she appeared as a "cute, funny, nerdy girl with a best friend, named Lena." She's also appeared on Disney Channel's Jessie, in which
